- Training courses tailored to your personal ambitions and goals
- £[ ]k depending on experience
- Excellent pension package

You have:

- A real interest in politics
- A dedication to producing high quality work
- An entrepreneurial spirit and a desire to innovate and develop new models
- The appetite and flexibility to work with clients across a range of industries
- A personable approach and you are a team-player

A typical day might include the following:

- Building and maintaining complex databases for data modelling
- Interpreting and presenting quantitative insights for clients
- Contributing to innovative quantitative research projects
- Producing briefings and insights on events and trends in the UK and internationally
- Working with data scientists to draw insights from multiple data sources
